

What is The National Mentoring Resource Center?

MENTOR: The National Mentoring Partnership (MENTOR) and The U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Justice Programs, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention are proud to partner to bring The National Mentoring Resource Center (NMRC) to the youth mentoring field. The NMRC is comprised of three components: the National Mentoring Resource Center Research Board; the resource center website; and no-cost specialized technical assistance for mentoring programs. The website features quality resources for the youth mentoring field, program and training materials; and the opportunity to request technical assistance.

The goal of the National Mentoring Resource Center is to support mentoring programs in more fully incorporating evidence-based practices with training and technical assistance to improve the quality and effectiveness of their programming, leading to improved outcomes for our nation's youth.

How Can I Request Free Technical Assistance?

The National Mentoring Resource Center provides free technical assistance to mentoring programs around individual needs and the improved implementation of specific mentoring practices. Some recent examples of technical assistance provided to mentoring programs include: the development and revision of mentoring training materials; guidance and consultation on mentor recruitment plans and strategies; analysis of mentor screening processes; and analysis of match support processes and consultation on strategies for improvement. To request technical assistance, please complete the following steps.

- Click the Connect with Us button and select the dropdown option "Request Technical Assistance".
- You can then click to open the online application where you can detail your request.
- Click Submit when finished.
